Bench to Bed:

E-Health Supporting Nursing Practice

The NIA annual conference brings together key Australian and international nurses to explore and progress the role of information and communication technology in health care.

Don't miss Bench to Bed; E-Health Supporting Nursing Practice

- ✎ Connect with Australian and international nurses currently involved in E-Health
- ✎ Network with other nurses who face the same issues you face
- ✎ Keep up to date with developments
- ✎ Stay ahead of the game
- ✎ Become involved in your profession and put nurses at the cutting edge of health care and health informatics for cost-effective and outcome-driven care for patients and clients into the future.

All in one day

Bench to Bed: E-Health Supporting Nursing Practice offers a great opportunity for all nurses to share and enhance their understanding of the role nurses have in the current national and local E-Health agenda's.

We invite you to Canberra to share your research and practice experiences that aim to meet the needs of E-Health now and in the future.

Call for Papers

Paper presentations are invited that address current E-Health nursing research, practice, trends, developments, works in progress and that challenge existing practice are all welcome.

All papers will be peer reviewed by a panel of national nurse informaticians and published in the proceedings. Presentations are expected to be for 20 minutes and 5 minutes for questions.
